Holy One of God.

allowing the Holy Spirit to help us realize that Jesus is the Body and Blood in our world, nor is there any concern about there is no concern for our being created by the love of God, someone who is concerned only about an earthly kind of life.

Greek language has several different words for flesh. When gives life the flesh is of no avail. We are hindered because the flesh, Jesus makes the puzzling comment that while the Spirit as well as to the life that is ours as we feast on Christ's made flesh, speaks words that open us to the wisdom of the Spirit as well as to the love of God.

Oddly, after talking about how important it is for us to eat His Body and Blood. All of this is the way to living out the Spirit as well as to the life that is ours as we feast on Christ's made flesh, speaks words that open us to the wisdom of the Spirit as well as to the love of God.

Making a difference in the world can be puzzling....

...but YOU are the missing piece!

A message from Fr. Roman regarding Priests abusing, Bishops covering up, and We, the Body of Christ

Much is being said about the shock, anger, frustration, helplessness and heartache because of yet another huge amount of information brought to light by the grand jury in Pennsylvania about priests abusing children and youth and the bishops’ failure to have taken the appropriate action.

Many have already given up on the Church for a variety of reasons: some have disliked the changes in the Church as a result of Vatican Council II; others left the Church because of harsh treatment or being ignored by Church personnel; many left the Church when in the early part of this century the lid was blown off the secrecy of abuse in the archdiocese of Boston; a good number of people continue to leave for any number of reasons.

Despite all of this, I encourage us to focus on several points. 1) That bring our thoughts and feelings about the sad reality of abuse to our Lord in prayer and allow our Lord to remind us that we continue to be loved for no other reason than that is the nature of God; 2) That in sharing with one another how this news affects each of us, we remind each other to focus on what we are for and not what we are against, namely, we are for accepting and sharing in all ways and means the love of God revealed in the life, death and resurrection of Jesus our Divine Savior. We will cherish our treasured belief that as a Church we are privileged to share regularly and often in the Presence of Jesus made REAL in His Word, His Sacraments, and in us His Body wherever two or more are gathered in His Name. 3) When people ask us how we can remain Catholic given yet another scandal, we respond the way Peter does in this Sunday’s Gospel: there is no where else to go because we, along with one or two other Christian denominations, believe in the Real Presence of Jesus. We would not cut ourselves off from our source of sacred food and drink by which our beings are nurtured and our sins forgiven. 4) When people say very derogatory things about our Church or make judgments about anyone connected with the Church, we invite these people to look at their sins and failures and that we love them in spite of those failures and in spite of their making damaging statements about anyone within our Church. We remind them that we believe that do our best not to judge anyone. We are called to love everyone, despite the challenges that this may bring. 5) I encourage you to share with those who ask “what steps have been taken to ensure the safety of our children/youth?” Those who are currently working with children or youth in the Church must be fingerprinted, must take a course on establishing healthy and proper boundaries, and are never allowed to be alone with a child or youth. In addition, all children/teens in our faith formation program are educated in their sessions on how to protect themselves, find trusted adults to share their concerns and what to do if anyone, including family members, treats them in inappropriate ways. These are a few points to keep in mind. Of course, we keep in thought and prayer those who suffer the awful pain of having been abused in any way, regardless of who does the abusing. Our most fervent prayer is now and will continue to be offering our loving Savior is present within us and that relying on His grace and wisdom we will do our best to take the best possible care of one another. Fr. Roman Mueller, S.D.S.

Courtyard candlelight vigil at 8pm - We will all come together to honor, remember, and stand in prayer and grief for all the victims of sexual abuse by priests and laity, and the cover ups and means the love of God revealed in the life, death and resurrection of Jesus our Divine Savior. We will recall our treasured belief that as a Church we are privileged to share regularly and often the Presence of Jesus made REAL in His Word, His Sacraments, and in us His Body wherever two or more are gathered in His Name.
